

ARE WE THERE YET?

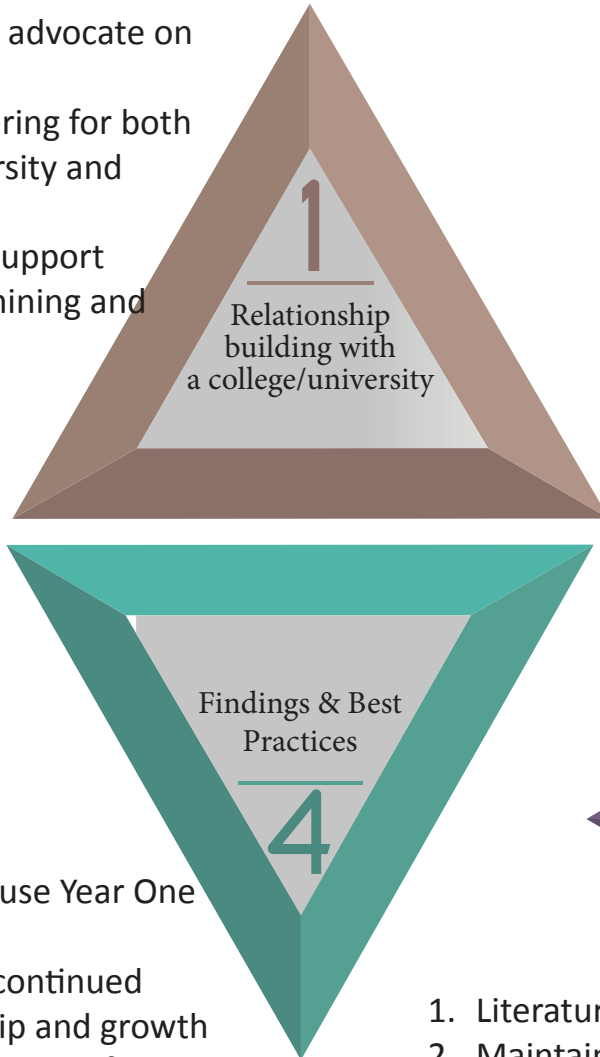

COMMUNITY COLLABORATIONS FOR OUTCOMES EVALUATION

Rachel Branaman & Irene D. Reyes, MPH

START

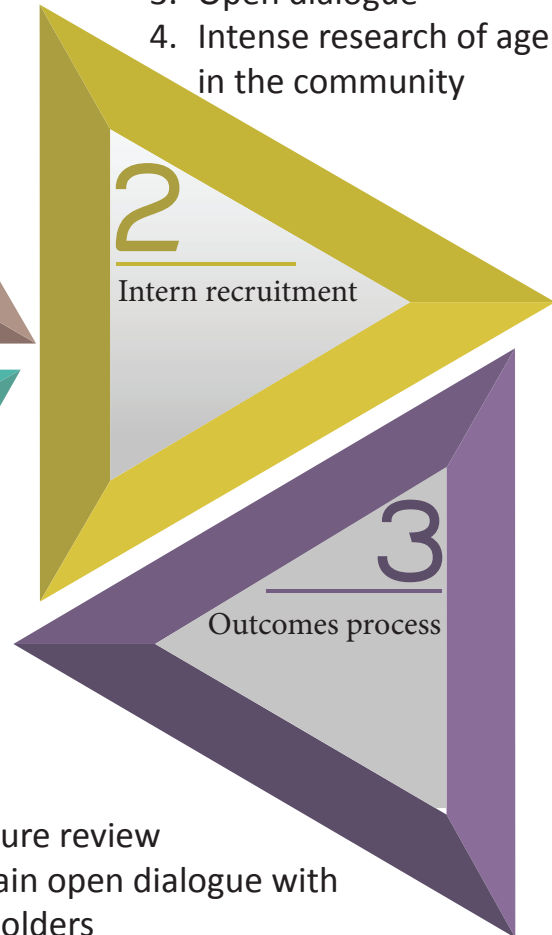

Identify approaches toward building unique community collaborations and discuss how to use collaborations for outcomes evaluation

1. Networking with local connections
2. Having an advocate on your side
3. Value offering for both the university and agency
4. Ongoing support for data mining and analysis

1. Alley's House Year One findings
2. Plans for continued partnership and growth
3. Administration of outcomes and pre/post testing training with program staff

1. Detailed scope of work for clear expectations of agency, college, and interns
2. Website and social media recruitment
3. Open dialogue
4. Intense research of agency role in the community

1. Literature review
2. Maintain open dialogue with stakeholders to get honest feedback
3. Gathering data, analysing trends and themes
4. Create and administer survey for baseline data
5. Development of outcomes and indicators
6. Surveys and tools to evaluate outcomes